

Laptop Battery

Is it normal for a battery to produce heat while it is being used and while charging?

It is normal for notebook batteries to produce heat when they are being charged and also when you are running on battery power. As energy is transferred within your battery cells, heat is a natural byproduct.

Unique solution ID: #1003

Author: Secure-Battery.com

Last update: 2022-11-15 13:02