If your PayPal page looks as follows, just click on "Pay with a credit or debit card" or "Create an Account" - it's depending on which device you are using for the payment, like mobile or laptop.

The image displays two versions of the PayPal login page. Both pages feature the PayPal logo at the top, followed by the heading "Pay with PayPal". Below the heading are two input fields: "Email address" and "Password". A checkbox labeled "Stay logged in for faster checkout" with a help icon is present on both. A blue "Log In" button is located below the inputs. Below the button is the text "Having trouble logging in?" followed by "or".

In the left screenshot, the "Create an Account" button is highlighted with a red border, and a red arrow points from the "Having trouble logging in?" text to it. The right screenshot shows the "Pay with Debit or Credit Card" button highlighted with a red border, and a red arrow points from the "Having trouble logging in?" text to it. At the bottom of each page, there are links for "Cancel and return to Trustifi LLC" and language options (English, Français, Español, 中文).

The PayPal page you see might differ from the pictures shown above. It depends on the region you located in and the language of your browser. But mostly, the buttons for unregistered users are grayed out. As shown in the picture below, you need to click the "Checkout as Guest" button at this time.

I can't find similar options such as "Don't have a PayPal account?" or "Create an Account"?

If you can't find access to a credit card payment at Paypal, it might be limited by your location, or sometimes PayPal might believe that you actually own a PayPal account by checking your browser's cookies. You can try deleting your cookies to get around this.
